ONLY ONE CONFEDERATE VET ON PENSION LIST

Virginia will spend more than $300,000 in the next twelve months on Confederate penions, but there is only one Confederate veteran on the list. He is John Salling, who was 108 years old May 16. He lives at Fort Blackmore, Scott County, and is the last Confederate now living in the Old Dominion. He draws a pension of $100 a month.

Other principal pension payments will go to about 400 widows of Confederate veterans and to about 1,400 dependent daughters of Confederate veterans. Each widow will receive $40 per month and the dependent daughters get $90 in quarterly payments of $22.50.

The state also makes payments of $45 toward burial expenses of any Confederate pensioner.

WALK WARILY

THE EVENING RUSH . . . The rush hour can become the death hour, if you're not careful. At the end of the day people are tired and impatient. Drivers react slowly to pedestrians and other ever-present traffic hazards. "Look about and watch out," warns your little guardian angel. "Slower reaction means faster death."

It's better to be 10 minutes late than never to arrive for dinner at all. Rushing spells disaster any time, but especially in the evening. Be alert at all times. Forget about your dinner until you see it on the table. Rushing home to eat it might rush you right to death or serious injury.

This is one of a series of safety messages presented by Liberty Mutual Insurance Company in the interest of pedestrians everywhere to keep them safe and sound.
